

A Taste of Lewis & Clark in the Northwest

"A Taste of Lewis & Clark in the Northwest" will take you back to the expedition period of 1803-1806 with authentic encampments by re-enactors portraying members of the Lewis & Clark expedition. American Indian nations will be on hand to tell their stories and share their cultures. You'll enjoy art, music, and entertainment.

Aug. 26-28, 2005

9a.m. - 5 p.m. at the Oregon & Washington Visitor Centers
Bonneville Lock and Dam
Cascades Locks, Oregon

Captain Lewis' Company makes camp at the Bradford Island Visitor Center.
Hasan Davis portrays York, Captain Clark's slave.

Blackfeet singer/song writer Jack Gladstone interweaves story and song.
Mandan Historian Army Mossett presents the story of Sacajawea, the Shoshone woman.
Michael Haynes' painting exhibition, "Drawn Through Time," depicts the expedition.
A film festival showcasing the best of Lewis & Clark films will be shown throughout the event.

A Taste of Lewis & Clark in the Northwest

"A Taste of Lewis & Clark in the Northwest" will take you back to the time of their exploration.

Music, performances, authentic encampments, art and film await your family this summer at Bonneville Lock and Dam, Cascade Locks. For more information, check events at:

www.nwp.usace.army.mil

